theory of change

...increase the tech leadership

People working on social change understand the importance of equity and tech in their movements.

These changemakers have increased skills and capacity they put to use in their missions.

NTEN is a leading organization that changemakers, philanthropists, technologists, and service providers want to join and support.

...across missions and the sector

Organizations center their communities in making decisions about tech.

Nonprofit technology is a recognized field and area of advancement.

The nonprofit sector is recognized for its unique skills and capabilities.
